SOCIETY

THE marriage of Miss Ruth Halford and Lieut. Walter B. Woodson, U. S. N., at the Church of the Covenant yesterday afternoon inaugurated the fall wedding in which both local society and army and navy families are interested. Only the relatives of the officiating parties and a very few of their personal friends had been invited and were present to witness the happy event.

Lieut. Commander R. D. White, U. S. N., and Paymaster Schuman seated the guests, and when the bride entered she was escorted to the presence of the officiating minister, who was her grandfather, Rev. D. S. Dean, D. D., of Passaic, N. J., by her uncle, Mr. J. C. Hood. The bride toilet was exceedingly becoming to the radiantly happy and handsome young wearer. The trained gown of white satin had point lace on the corsage and was enveloped in the long veil of tulle, which was crowned with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Frank Halford, wife of Lieut. Halford, U. S. N., was matron of honor for her sister-in-law and wore a smart lingerie dress of lace and mull over pink, a picture hat and carried a bouquet of maidenhair ferns. Lieut. Grafton Beall, U. S. N., was best man. Mrs. Halford gave her daughter in marriage, and later welcomed the relatives and a few friends to her apartment at the Brighton before the newly married couple left for their honeymoon jaunt.

Miss Wynne will not return here until the late autumn.
